ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE.

We are authorized to announce GEORGE P. DYER, of Wolf county, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from the 91st Legislative District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held July 1, 1911.

We are authorized to announce I. N. HORTON, of Wolf county, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from the 91st Legislative District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held July 1, 1911.

We are authorized to announce A. HOWARD STAMPER, of Wolf county, as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Representative from the 91st Legislative district of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic primary to be held July 1, 1911.

Teachers' examination for county certificate Friday and Saturday. If the pupils of the West Liberty Normal don't average up to the standard set by the pupils of other schools we have missed our guess.

Ollie James is a big man physically and mentally and would grace a seat in the United States Senate, but he is not pitching his campaign on the high plane that his friends and admirers had reason to expect he would. The guns that he is turning on Senator Paynter are sure to rebound harder than they shoot and do more harm to the shooter than to the shot.

Sunday excursions on the Caney Valley and the Ohio & Kent city Railroads bid fair to become very popular this summer, and why not? If people who work hard all week can take a little outing Sundays at small expense and visit neighboring towns and mix and commingle with their people the change will surely do them good and better prepare them for the duties of the coming week.

With the trains in charge of conductor Everett Back, who is courteous personified, and his efficient train crew, there need be no fear on the part of any one wishing to go but that every attention necessary for their comfort and convenience will be shown them at all times.

Remove the veneer from some men's characters and—My God—what would you behold?

Clip the wings of the "High Flyer" who constantly has a good time at the expense of the other fellow. He is getting too common; eliminate him.

Protection From Fire For West Liberty.

On these hot, dry days, and especially when there's a strong wind blowing, we naturally think of the danger from fire and wonder what we would do in case of a conflagration in West Liberty, at a time when most of the fire fighting population were absent. These thoughts are not inspired by pessimism but are the result of a real solicitude for the safety of our own and our neighbors homes and places of business.

That which goes up in smoke is lost and the burning of a business house, dwelling or barn is a loss to the entire community, although it falls heaviest on the owner of the burned property or some insurance company.

West Liberty has the best natural facilities for fire protection of any town in the mountains, if her people would only avail themselves of them. Think what a protection water works would be to us if we had a tank of sufficient size on the McGuire hill just back of town and the proper hose connections with our residences and places of business. How many buildings that have burned in the last ten years have been saved if we had water works at the time.

Only a few days ago an entire block of the thriving little town of Carlisle, Ky., was entirely destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $150,000, and had it not been for aid from nearby towns the entire town probably would have burned. Had they had the facilities for erecting water works that we have, and taken advantage of them, ninety per cent of this loss would not have occurred.

Water works for West Liberty would not only be a protection but would be a great convenience in other ways too numerous to mention, and besides it would be a paying investment.

The same power that would pump the water into the tank would run a laundry or an ice plant or both, conveniences and enterprises of which we stand badly in need and which would pay a handsome dividend on the capital invested.

Let the enterprising citizens of West Liberty think of these things and talk them over with their neighbors until the sentiment becomes so christalized that it will be nothing short of a demand and then the man and the means will not be hard to find.

PIGHEAD.

EZEL & MURPHY.

Frank Havens has returned from the city, where he went to buy goods.

J. W. Davis, one of the county examiners, went to West Liberty last Thursday to hold an examination.

C. W. and Carl Nickell spent Saturday night with Judge Carter and family at Bonny.

Misses Emma and Annie Sample and Clifford Nickell are attending commencement at H. G. A.

The boys here are trying to organize a ball team to play this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Nickell spent Sunday with Smith Nickell and wife.

Miss Bertie Cecil has measles. W. R. Cecil and wife, of Grassy Creek, visited J. S. Nickell and family Sunday.

As Pighead wants an explanation on a few things I will gladly give it. In the first place, I will tell things Mr. Horton has done that has endeared him in the hearts of ALL APPRECIATIVE PEOPLE, but of course there are people who never look at both sides of things and are always for a man who stands in for cliques, combines and lawlessness in general. Now, my dear Pighead, don't be surprised when I inform you that Mr. Horton was chosen Chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee of Wolfe county a couple of years ago and by his unceasing and untiring efforts caused the biggest Democratic vote to be cast in that county that was ever known, thus bringing victory and honor to his party. Mr. Horton has always contributed to charity and is a friend to the great common people, worthy of their support and admiration, regardless of politics.

Now Pighead, what has Mr. Dyer ever done for the people or party? George, no doubt, was a good soldier and was advanced to the lowest office in the ranks of the army, and no doubt if he were still there he would have been General by now. Did he ever fire a gun in defense of the stars and stripes? Did he ever bring victory to his party? Did he ever do anything for the people in general? Because a man has been in the army and held a petty office does it qualify him to represent 25,000 honest mountaineers in the legislative halls of old "Kaintuck"? It is true he is a good barber and farmer and an honest man, but voters he is not the man you want to send to make the laws that govern you. Mr. Stamper is next. Mr. Stamper is a "has been," come and gone, like the cold winter winds. His stay with the people was of short duration. He was elected County Attorney two or three times. Voters, it is for you to decide who represents you.

In conclusion, will ask: Was Mr. Dyer compensated for being a so-called soldier? Yes, he received his monthly pay and now receives a good fat pension. Do we owe him anything? Was Mr. Stamper compensated for the County Attorney of Wolfe? Yes, he received a good salary as well as the condemnation of the people of the county. Do the people owe him anything?

Was Mr. Horton ever compensated for bringing victory to his party by his untiring work? No, never a cent did he get out of it. He worked for the party because he loved it, and when he takes a front seat in the next assembly he will work the same way for the people he represents. The way to compensate Mr. Horton for his services is to vote for him and show him that you stand for a qualified man and appreciate what he has done, and when he finishes this work for the people they will cry in one glad voice, "well done thou good and faithful servant, we are for you next time."

There Pighead, you are answered. What next? We are always ready to defend a man who stands for the right at all times. Come again please, if you have the nerve.

CAMPTON.

Hiram Swango, of Stillwater, a prominent man and mason, died the 11th, and was buried by the Masonic Fraternity.

By agreement between holders of the oil and gas leases the drilling of deep wells will begin soon. Great interest is being manifested in the outcome of the test well, as it means much for the people of Wolfe county.

O. Lykins and wife, who have been residing in Illinois for some time and working in the oil field, were visiting here the past few days.

T. C. Hollon, of Hollonville, was in town one day this week. Among the many good things he told us was that A. H. Stamper would carry his precinct solid.

Rev. Willis Lykins of Grassy, preached an able and interesting sermon to a large and appreciative congregation at Stillwater bridge Sunday.

KNOW ART OF CONVERSATION

Leisurely and Genial Social intercourse One of the Charms of Southern Life.

The north may think it knows something of conversation, but the south, as compared with the south, may be said never to have enjoyed a conversation. About the village courthouse, within the hospitable doors of some central store, in the office of the local daily or weekly paper, or—above all!—in the leisurely and genial intercourse around the fireside or on the inviting porch in summer, of friend with friends, there will be heard a conversation which in wit, in the charm and force of its illustrations, and in the directness and freedom of its criticism is not surpassed in American life today.

It is the product of leisure, of a world without haste, without ruthless preoccupations, without those resources of expression and interest which belong to the crowded and overworked existence of the commercial city. It is, moreover, part of the genius of climate, and soil, and social habit.—The Present South.

UNDERGROUND RIVERS.

There are comparatively few rivers of any size or importance in Australia, and a learned professor of science has been explaining the reason. In consequence of the geological formation of the commonwealth, most of its rivers are at present imprisoned subterranean streams.

He declares that one of these underground rivers is the largest in the world, being no less than 200 miles wide and running right through the center of the continent. If these vast supplies of subterranean waters were brought to the surface and properly utilized Australia would become the richest country in the world.

Needless Compass. To avoid the trouble of setting compasses on steel ships, the metal of which deflects the needle, a German inventor has devised a "needless one" in the form of a gyroscope, the axis of which always adjusts itself parallel to the earth's axis.
